The Spirit of the Red Cross.

I go where every man may dare,
I go where every woman's care
And love can live,
Where every strength and skill can bring
Success to human suffering,
Or solace give.
The cross which on my arm I wear,
The flag which over my breast I bear,
Is but the sign
Of what you'd sacrifice for him
Who suffers on the hellish rim
Of war's red line.
—John H. Finley.

Employees of the Hohnefeld Cleaning works have organized for the war work, the unit of which all men and women connected with the firm are members having been formed at a meeting Friday noon.

The meeting was called by Mr. J. P. Gallagher, and Mrs. Gallagher volunteered herself as instructor of knitting. Officers were elected as follows: Miss Martha Harmon, president; Miss Nora Haynes, vice president; Miss Alta Stroud, secretary; Mrs. Eva Ritschel, treasurer. The unit will meet every Tuesday and Thursday evening at 8 o'clock to work for one hour and any failure on their part to be present will call for the purchase of a thrift stamp. The following are members of the unit: Mesdames J. P. Gallagher, Bert Reller, Eva Ritschel, L. R. Colver; Misses Harmon, Haynes, Alta Stroud, Ida Line, Ruth Dean, Jewel Phillips, Ethel Harmon, Anna Barber, Gertrude Goin, Maggie Sprague, Marie Langrish, Beulah Cline, Nettie Lucas, Kathryn Planklin, Geraldine Brower, Messrs. Good wages and comfortable housing conditions are assured women who will respond to the urgent call for additional workers in the munitions plants throughout the country. In co-operation with the war industries board, the United States employment service of the department of labor is establishing local centers in various parts of the United States, and volunteers are urged to apply to the nearest local center for full details. It is the department's intention to have these centers in every large city, and in some sections, where conditions warrant, the local center will cover a larger radius. It is estimated that 2,600,000 women in the United States between the ages of 15 and 45 are unmarried and unemployed. The munitions factories could use a large number of these women, and are still calling for their help. Mrs. Davis, the wife of the governor of Virginia, is one of those who have responded to this call. She is working in the United States war housing plant No. 3 at Seven Pines, Mrs. James Cannon, wife of Senator Cannon, has also joined the force of women munitions workers. The munitions of the munitions plants, which so many need more workers, are hoping that other women will follow the example of Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Cannon.

Virginia women went to the aid of the canneries in Pace county, October 1, when they volunteered to help save the tomato crop. Leaving their own work, they worked day and night as pickers, thus supplying labor that could not have been obtained in any other way. Among the volunteers were women who own

Young Soprano Who Had Part in Play.

—Portrait by de Guelde-Rivkin.
Miss Ethel Fisher, a charming young soprano whose voice frequently is heard at affairs of musical nature, had a part in the presentation of the home talent play during the reunion in October and was accorded a warm reception by her auditors. Miss Fisher has been a pupil for some time of Mrs. Storey-White—in fact, Mrs. White has been the young woman's only tutor—and rapidly is climbing to an important place among local singers.

valuable farms and others who made their first experiment in any line of employment outside the home.
Department stores are opening a new branch of employment to women. In many of the big shops in the large cities of the United States, women are taking the places of floorwalkers who have been called into army service.

Personality counts for so much in this line of work that special care is exercised in choosing the women. Most of them now taking the women's places have been promoted from other positions in the stores. Some of them have been heads of departments and others have acted as commercial travelers. It has been found so far that the women floorwalkers develop extreme alertness and efficiency. They are quick to grasp the needs of shoppers and have the tact to meet the usual problems that come up in the course of a busy day. As a rule, the older women are chosen for these positions, which command good salaries.

The local Red Cross yesterday made knitted shipment to headquarters in St. Louis, which contained the following garments: 419 sweaters, 80 helmets, 250 pair socks, 220 suits pajamas.

The meeting day of the Baptist unit of the Red Cross at headquarters has been deferred from Tuesday until Wednesday.

The Seventh Day Adventist unit of the Red Cross has reported its activities for October as follows: Refugee shirts, 30; water proof cases, 20; bedside bags, 20; socks, 6 pair; sweaters, 1. The meeting on Tuesday will be with Mrs. L. D. Eldridge.
